"NO PROOF."

Game Warden Steele Says People Do Not Back Up Their Complaints.

Deputy Game Warden O. F. Steele is in Pendleton today from his ranch near Nolin. Mr. Steele says there have been but few alleged violations of the game and fish laws brought to his notice since he went into office. "Last week I was summoned to Milton," he said, "to investigate a charge of dynamiting fish. I was obliged to let the suspected man go free without a trial owing to lack of evidence to convict. There were those who claimed they heard the explosion of powder, and a dead fish was found on the bank of the stream near where the fellow was standing, but no one saw him fire the dynamite if he were guilty."

KNOWN IN OREGON.

Ralph Wells, of the Pyle Electric Headlight Company, Burned to Death.

Ralph Wells, superintendent of the Pyle National Electric Headlight company, of Chicago, who was burned to death in the gas explosion in that city, as reported in the dispatches in the East Oregonian yesterday, was well known in Oregon, especially among O. R. & N. officials and engineers.

The electric headlights with which the O. R. & N. engines are equipped are from the Pyle factory and four years ago when the lights were first installed on this system, Wells made a tour of the O. R. & N. to instruct the engineers in their use and to take notes on their operation.

He visited all the division points where engines were kept and made many friends among the railroad men.

He was one of the 13 men who lost their lives in the explosion of the gas tanks in the Pyle Headlight works yesterday in Chicago.

BOWMAN EQUIPPED

NEW HOTEL OUTFITTED AND AT GREAT EXPENSE.

Forty-One Rooms Besides Bath Rooms Furnished Under Mr. Bowman's Personal Direction—Carpeted With Axminster, Brussels and Velvets—Oak Furniture, Iron Bedsteads and Ostermoor Mattresses—House Will Be Opened to the Public Monday Next.

The new Bowman hotel, which has been fitted up in a most elegant and substantial manner, will open its doors to the public next Monday morning.

Mr. Bowman has spared no pains or expense in furnishing his house with the best the markets afford. During the summer he has visited the principal cities of the Northwest and has investigated all modern hotel fixtures and furnishings, and profited by others' mistakes and advices.

All details have been looked after personally by Mr. Bowman in the construction of the building as well as the furnishing and in matters with which he was not conversant, he did not hesitate to get plenty of the best advice.

There are 41 rooms besides bath rooms, on the second floor, all fitted complete from carpets to hat racks. The choice rooms are carpeted with fine Hartford Axminster carpets and the several other floors are covered with extra Axminster, wool velvets and tapestry Brussels.

The beds are all handsome patterns of iron, fitted with good spring and the finest of Perfection felted cotton mattresses known as the Ostermoor. Fine oak dressers, center tables, rockers and chairs are to be seen throughout. The double parlors, with bedroom annexed, are graced with the finest of pretty parlor pieces, portiere and lace curtains, making it very inviting and homelike.

Each bedroom is fitted with hot and cold water. The house is heated throughout by steam and furnished with electric lights.

In serving the public Mr. Bowman will see to it personally that all his guests are treated right and that none shall go away dissatisfied. Everything being new, clean and neat it will be a popular place for the traveling public as well as for local people who want first-class rooms at moderate prices.

All rooms are well lighted and ventilated, easy of access, and two large stairways, one each from Main and Railroad streets, make it a convenient place in a popular part of the city.

M. A. Rader, the well known furniture and carpet man of this city was the successful bidder for the furnishings, after most of the dealers in the Northwest had in turn, tried to sell the large bill of furnishings necessary for such a place. That Mr. Bowman, who is very critical in his selections, is well pleased with Mr. Rader's work and goods as well as his prices, speaks well for Mr. Rader, and it is fortunate that he, and not some foreign dealer has fitted up the house.

tional banks for a statement of business, shows a healthy condition.

Although it has been in business but five months and a half, the loans and discounts made to date amount to $45,112.53, the deposits amount to $41,428.47, the total amount of resources of the new bank to date being $103,928.07.

W. L. Thompson, cashier of the new bank, who has had experience in establishing new banking institutions prior to starting this bank, is highly pleased with the progress made by the Commercial National, and highly appreciates the patronage accorded the institution.

Woodmen Election Next Saturday.

The regular annual election of Pendleton Camp No. 41, Woodmen of the World, will be held on Saturday evening, November 26. All the elective officers will be selected at that time. Pendleton camp is now in a flourishing condition and boasts the largest membership of any order in the city, having over 500 active members. It is the second largest camp of Woodmen in the state, one other in Portland outnumbering it by a few. J. H. Lawrey is present counsel commander, and J. P. Walker, clerk, and it is now thought that both will be re-elected.
